ALL SORTS.

—Petroleum V. Nasby is dying.
—Lung Protectors at Thaxter's Drug Store.
—The weather wise predict another storm.
—For cold feet, get a Hot Water Bag at Thaxter's.
—E. P. Lovejoy, the Wabuska rancher, is in the city.
—The Little Louisiana Lottery has again been raided in San Francisco.
—Capt. Todman is at the Ormsby House exhibiting the plans of his new steamer, which when built on Lake Tahoe will cost $20,000.
—Croup, whooping cough, sore throat, sudden cold, and the lung troubles peculiar to children, are easily controlled by promptly administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy is safe to take, and certain in its action.

—“It is worth its weight in gold,” is a common expression. But, while the value of gold is easily affected, the worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as a blood purifier, never depreciates. It will eradicate scrofula from the system when everything else fails.

—The editor came near telling a great truth when he said that “an editor gets the credit of writing all articles that do not meet the appropriation of the readers of the paper, but when something appears that pleases the readers, every one wonders who wrote the piece.”

—District Attorney Torreyson, who lately wrote to Washington concerning the office rent, $1,200, owing Ormsby county by the U. S. Government, received an answer this morning from Mr. Garland, stating that the accounts for the last year had not been forwarded. County Treasurer Tobriner has sent the bills on, so the coin may be expected in a few weeks.

—Some weeks ago some paper announced that W. J. Westerfield, of Lyon, would be a candidate for Congress next Fall, provided G. W. Cassidy did not enter the field. The papers now state that Cassidy is a candidate for that office, and in all probability Mr. Westerfield will now be a candidate for re-election to the position of State Senator from Lyon.—Lyon County Times.

—The New York Sun has a story from British Columbia about the discovery of a Chinese society with ramifications in that country and the United States, having for its purpose the assassination of any person inimical to the society. That is no new sensation in California, where the existence and work of such societies have been known for years.

Where Honesty Won.

A honest politician has been discovered in Alabama. Just after having announced himself as a candidate for Congress, and while standing on the courthouse steps making a speech, some one in the crowd yelled:

“Say, what do you think of the tariff? Give us your views.”
“My friends,” said the orator.
“I don't know a blame thing about the tariff.”

He was elected by a large majority.

The Latest Cold Weather Story.

The Genoa Courier says:
“About three weeks ago Al. Squires missed a fine brood mare, and after a brief search found her standing in the river in about 18 inches of water frozen stiff. He says she looked as natural as life. He thinks she went to the river to get a drink, and drank so much cold water that she became chilled and could not get out.”

The Most Agreeable

As well as the most effective method of dispelling Headaches, Colds, and Fevers, or Cleansing the System, is by taking a few doses of the pleasant California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. For sale by Geo. C. Thaxter, agent.

House For Rent.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Gritty Girl who Felled a Lunatic.

Further particulars from Lunning show that Miss Smith had a very narrow escape from being killed when attacked by Summerfield, the lunatic.

Summerfield was a young man about 29 years of age, who had lived in the mountains for some time prospecting, when he met Miss Smith, a sister-in-law of John Dornier, Secretary of State. She has for some time had charge of the station at Lunning, on the C. & C. R. R. She has charge of the telegraph and ticket office, and also the freight office. Although not 20 years of age, she handles all the business of the office, and has never made a mistake since she was in the employ of the company.

Last Fall Summerfield came there quite often to get freight, and then began coming when he had no freight. He fell in love with Miss Smith, but she declined his attentions, and he then wandered off in the mountains and became a raving maniac. His appearance as a wild man began to excite the attention of people in the vicinity, and a sheriff's posse went out after him. He was found in the hills raving wildly, and it took four men to bind him. He was taken to Lione and then to Lunning, on the way to Virginia City, where he was to be examined by a lunacy commission. At Lunning he became quiet, and was foolishly liberated. He went straight to the freight office, and rushing in grabbed up a large pair of shears and announced to Miss Smith that he was going to kill her.

She was alone, and taken by surprise, retreated, he following with the shears uplifted like a dagger.

Then remembering of a drawer where there was a six-shooter, she darted for it, but he jumped between and struck with the shears. She warded the blow, and seizing a stick of wood, struck him square between the eyes, and springing over him was through the door in an instant.

He rose and followed her, flourishing the shears, when some men came out of a saloon and secured him. He fought them like a wild beast until he was knocked down and bound.

He is a man of immense frame, and for a while it seemed as if he would have the best of the fight.

Miss Smith has notified the county Sheriff that his deputies must let no more lunatics loose in Lunning.

A Telescoped Wreck.

Harry Rice, of this city, who was the engineer on one of the freight locomotives in the collision on the C. P. has reached Carson with one arm in a sling and is the only one of the engineers or firemen on either of the four locomotives who is able to be up at the present time.

The locomotives are said to have been the most disastrous looking wreck ever seen, being nothing more than a tangled and unrecognizable mass of steel, iron and splinters, and it was a mystery that the loss of life was not greater. The express car was also a total wreck, and while every express package was recovered, nevertheless great loss results from the fact that every package was stripped of its covering, and while damaged greatly, all but four parcels were cast from their wrappers, and their identity and destination rendered uncertain. The mail car was broken in two right across the middle and telescoped at both ends, and in fact looked like a mound of splinters, and yet, strange to say, the three postal messengers in the car escaped without any material injury.
